Each time she appeared, she received as many as ten calls from people seeking help or information.

TBF Ex. 29, P. 2. She has never appeared on any other Miami area television station.

552. James Edward Woods is the former pastor of the Issues of Life Ministry, which started out as a street ministry ministering to the homeless and needy. He appeared on Praise the Lord-South Florida in March, June and November of 1991 to talk about his ministry and to seek contributions. TBF Ex. 30, P. 1. "Many" people called to volunteer to distribute food and clothing, and the church received many donations. TBF Ex. 30, Pp. 1-2. Mr. Woods believes giving publicity to his and other ministries in the central city area serves an important public need. TBF Ex. 30, P. 2.

553. Dr. Andrew Cherry is a Professor of Social Work Research at the Barry University School of Social Work. In 1989, he appeared on WHFT as a guest expert on homelessness. At the time, he had just completed the first professional study of the homeless in South Florida. He was asked to explain the reasons for homelessness and the needs of those living in the streets. SALAD Ex. 13, P. 1.

554. Although Dr. Cherry has been on approximately a dozen similar television and radio talk shows, his experience at Channel 45 was unique. Basically they misrepresented to him what they saw his role to be on their program. Dr. Cherry was told he was to inform the public as an expert in the field. In reality as the program unfolded, he realized that they were setting him up as an example of an expert who had the wrong answers and probably contributed to the problem of homelessness. While Dr. Cherry tried to highlight the basic reasons for homelessness and the types of people who were becoming homeless, the show focused on a street evangelist working with the homeless. About midway through the program a short tape was shown that depicted a white man who was homeless and living on the street. Dr. Cherry was then asked for a diagnosis and a treatment plan. The homeless man appeared to be dysfunctional as a result of a mental disorder, probably severe depression. Lo and behold, the street evangelist had saved the homeless man. The homeless man had accepted the Lord as a result of the work of a street evangelist and the street evangelist had given the man a job and a place to live. The point they were making was that homeless people did not need social service programming or medications. They implied that the problem was that homeless people were not christians. After this, Dr. Cherry pointed out that virtually all the homeless were christian, ex-members of churches and synagogues, and reading the Bible was their man source of diversion. He was never again asked to be on any of their public programming. SALAD Ex. 13, P. 2.

555. Johnnie R. McMillian has been a resident of Dade County, Florida for over two decades and is employed as the Deputy Administration for the Chapter I Program of the Dade County Public Schools. For the past four and one half years, he has also served as the President of the Miami-Dade Branch of the NAACP. With over 8,000 members, including 2,500 youth members, it is among the largest NAACP branches in the United States and it is the largest Black organization in South Florida. SALAD Ex. 17, P. 1.

556. The Miami-Dade Branch of the NAACP attempted to establish dialogue with all twelve television stations. In 1990, the NAACP invited the general managers of each station to separately visit with members of our Communications Committee and the Ft. Lauderdale Branch's Communications Committee at the Tacolcy Neighborhood Center in Liberty City, a well established Black neighborhood in Miami. The NAACP wanted to review each station's hiring practices, public affairs programming and public service programming and make suggestions on how each station could improve its sensitivity to the needs of the African American community. The NAACP scheduled and kept eleven appointments that day, including nine with general managers of TV stations. Two stations sent their station managers owing to time conflicts of their general managers. Channel 45 was the only station which sent nobody; indeed, it did not respond to the invitation at all. Id.

557. From 1989 through the end of 1991, the Miami-Dade NAACP mailed or faxed every television station, including Channel 45, several dozen announcements, press releases and meeting notices. Whether through news coverage, public affairs programs, editorials or PSAs, every station but Channel 45 responded in some way to some of this material. Early in 1992, the NAACP stopped sending press notices to Channel 45; it was a waste of time. SALAD Ex. 17, P. 2.

558. Carlton Moore is a Commissioner of the City of Fort Lauderdale and has lived in Fort Lauderdale all of his life. He is employed as an Investigator with the Public Defender's Office. He is a member of numerous civic organizations, including, among others, the Biracial Committee of the Broward County School Board, the NAACP (4th Vice President, Florida State Conference, and past President of the Ft. Lauderdale Branch); the Board of Directors of the Florida League of Cities; the Broward County Substance Abuse Committee; the Ft. Lauderdale Historical Society; the Young Democrats; the Twenty-First Century Democrats; the Northwest Boys Club Advisory Boards; Broward Leadership Alumni; the Ft. Lauderdale Community Services Board; the Northwest Redevelopment Council; the Ft. Lauderdale Small Business Advisory Board, and the Broward County Black Economic Development Council. SALAD Ex. 18, P. 1.

559. Channel 45 has never sent a representative to cover or attend an event of interest to Mr. Moore. In comparison, Channels 4, 7, 10, 33 and 39 regularly cover community interest events relating to economic development and other minority group concerns, such as "Night Out on Crime," the NAACP/Nationsbank Resource Center, the Heritage Bowl football game, and the Urban League's drug program. SALAD Ex. 18, P. 2.
